

Kamelia Bayat

Kamelia Bayat currently serves as Administrative Director for Behavioral Health as well as women's and infants' services and GYN surgeries at Johns Hopkins National Capital Region (NCR), where she oversees inpatient and ambulatory operations for a number of specialties including psychiatry, gynecologic oncology, gynecologic surgery and maternal-fetal medicine.

Kamelia is providing direct operational oversight of the outpatient addiction treatment center and day treatment program in Bethesda, and the ECT and TMS programs at Sibley Hospital as well as Crisis and Partial Hospitalization programs at Suburban Hospital. Kamelia works closely with clinical and nursing leadership at both hospitals to provide operational expertise and support for behavioral health services across the region.

Kamelia has more than 10 years of experience in the health care industry across a variety of areas, including health care marketing, practice management, community health outreach, operations management, financial analysis and business planning. In various roles at Sibley, she has provided leadership for medical oncology, thoracic surgery and interventional pulmonology.
